Clermont County Public Library Celebrates National Library Week
April 2-8 – Change Your World @ Your Library

For Immediate Release: March 27, 2006

The Clermont County Public Library (CCPL) is celebrating National Library Week April 2-8 at all ten of its branches by inviting everyone to “Change Your World @ Your Library”. As part of the celebration, CCPL wants you to tell us how you would change the world if you could, and have the opportunity to win a prize.

Just fill out an entry slip with your “change the world” dream written on it to be entered into a drawing to win a certificate for a free packet of trees or a shrub. All ages are invited to enter. Clermont Soil and Water Conservation District has partnered with CCPL to bring this program to the community. Just as planting a tree can change the landscape, ideas and dreams that can change the world can be planted and nurtured at your Library.

So come to your Library and find ideas to change the world – and tell us what they are! Each branch will hold a drawing on April 17th for the lucky winners who will be able to plant a tree or shrub in their very own yard.

The Clermont County Commissioners have officially proclaimed April 2-8 National Library Week. CCPL Director Leslie Massey accepted the proclamation on March 22nd.
